Catherine of Aragon: The First Wife

Catherine of Aragon was the daughter of King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella of Spain. She was born in 1485 and married Henry VIII in 1509. Catherine was a devout Catholic and a strong supporter of her husband's policies. However, her inability to produce a male heir ultimately led to her downfall.

In 1527, Henry VIII began to pursue an annulment of his marriage to Catherine. He claimed that their marriage was invalid because Catherine had previously been married to his older brother, Arthur. The Pope refused to grant an annulment, which led Henry to break with the Catholic Church and establish the Church of England.

Catherine was stripped of her title as queen and banished from court. She died in exile in 1533, at the age of 47.

Anne Boleyn: The Second Wife

Anne Boleyn, Henry VIII's second wife.

Anne Boleyn was the daughter of Sir Thomas Boleyn and Lady Elizabeth Howard. She was born in 1501 and married Henry VIII in 1533. Anne was a charming and intelligent woman, but she was also ambitious and headstrong.

Anne's failure to produce a male heir quickly led to her downfall. Henry VIII began to accuse her of treason and adultery, and she was eventually executed in 1536.

Jane Seymour: The Third Wife

Jane Seymour was the daughter of Sir John Seymour and Margery Wentworth. She was born in 1508 and married Henry VIII in 1536. Jane was a gentle and kind-hearted woman, and she quickly won Henry's affection.

Jane died in childbirth in 1537, just two weeks after giving birth to Henry's only legitimate son, Edward VI.

Anne of Cleves: The Fourth Wife

Anne of Cleves, Henry VIII's fourth wife.

Anne of Cleves was the daughter of Duke Wilhelm and Duchess Maria of Cleves. She was born in 1515 and married Henry VIII in 1540. Anne was a plain and unattractive woman, and Henry was reportedly disgusted by her on their wedding night.

Henry annulled his marriage to Anne in 1540, just six months after they were married. Anne was given the title of "King's Sister" and lived out the rest of her life in England.

Catherine Howard: The Fifth Wife

Catherine Howard was the daughter of Lord Edmund Howard and Joyce Culpeper. She was born in 1523 and married Henry VIII in 1540. Catherine was a beautiful and charming woman, but she was also reckless and irresponsible.

Catherine was accused of treason and adultery in 1542, and she was executed in 1543.

Catherine Parr: The Sixth Wife

Catherine Parr, Henry VIII's sixth wife.

Catherine Parr was the daughter of Sir Thomas Parr and Maud Green. She was born in 1512 and married Henry VIII in 1543. Catherine was a learned and intelligent woman, and she was a good stepmother to Henry's children.

Catherine survived Henry VIII and married Thomas Seymour after the king's death. She died in childbirth in 1548, at the age of 36.

Henry VIII's six marriages were a source of great drama and intrigue. His wives were complex and fascinating women who played a significant role in English history. Their tragic deaths are a reminder of the dangers of power and the fragility of human life.
